

LOS ANGELES MISSION COLLEGE CAMPUS IMPROVEMENTS

A Proposition A / AA Update | SEPTEMBER 2005

TEMPORARY PARKING LOT

Preparation of the temporary student parking lot at Hubbard Street and the 210 Freeway is moving forward. Demolition, clearing, and grading have been completed. When finished, this well-lit, paved lot will accommodate nearly 600 cars. A shuttle bus will transport students from this temporary lot to the main campus when construction begins on Parking Structure "A" on the site of the present student lot.

BOOKMARK THIS CHANGE

On August 18, 2005, the Mission College Council unanimously approved a recommendation to shift the proposed site of the new Bookstore from the Family and Consumer Studies Building. Instead, it will be constructed as a two-story building forming the centerpiece of the renovated Campus Services Building. (The Bookstore is shown here as a preliminary conceptual model.) Under the old plan, the Bookstore would have been relocated to a temporary site for as long as five years. With the change, it may be relocated for as little as 12 months.

HOLD THE DOOR, PLEASE

It's a lot easier now for Culinary Arts students and staff to take delivery. New, clear doors behind the kitchen area make the movement of food, utensils, and cooking equipment much less cumbersome than before. The culinary delivery and "washdown" area just beyond the doors also got a make-over as a result of this project.

CLEANER, BRIGHTER

Crews spent part of the summer giving the Instructional / Administration Building the "once over." Improvements included painting of the entire exterior, as well as all classrooms, corridors, restrooms and entrances. New window caulking will help maintain the heat during the winter,...and keep out the cold.
